Simple & Transparent

Your device in your pocket
Q-Line's payment app guides and supports users throughout their entire session under or on the device. If they have a busy schedule, they can first check availability and reserve the device via the app's booking system. At the right time, they receive a notification to remind them of their reservation, and the device is ready in the stable.

They just need to place their horse under or on the device and pay directly from the mobile app with their preferred payment method, within seconds. Once the session is over, they receive a new notification to remind them of their horse.

If users encounter any issues, they can always contact our support team directly through the app's live chat or by calling us. Q-Line's specialized support team can resolve 92% of cases while the user is still in the stable. If a solarium is not functioning properly, we offer users the option to report the issue on their behalf to the stable owner.

Book from anywhere
Q-Line's payment app includes a convenient booking system for the stable. This allows users to ensure that a solarium is available when they want their horse to enjoy the solarium. You can book solarium sessions from any location and only pay when you start the session.

The app even offers the option to send the user a reminder before the booking, making it as simple as possible to plan the horse's session.
